

JAP AERIAL ARMADAS BADLY BATTER ROYAL AIR FORCE AIRDROME

Finally Driven Off By Out-Numbered Pilots of American Volunteer Group

SOME FURIOUS FIGHTING

Airport Used As A Base For Attacks On Jap Troop Concentrations

MANDALAY, Mar. 23.—(INS)—Vast Japanese aerial armadas severely battered a Royal Air Force airdrome in central Burma Saturday and yesterday, but were driven off by out-numbered pilots of the American volunteer group and the Royal Air Force after furious fighting, an official communique revealed today.

The airport was said to have been used extensively by the A. V. G. and the R. A. F. as a base for attacks on Japanese airdromes and troop concentrations in Burma.

In the first attack, at least 80 Japanese bombers and fighters came over the airport in a desperate effort to blast it out of existence. Other waves of enemy planes came over later in the day.

As the out-numbered American and British pilots sought to make up for their lack of equipment with superior human flying, the cheering word came from New Delhi that substantial reinforcements of warplanes and pilots, destined for the Burma front, had arrived in India.

The communique declared:

Further serious air raids took place Sunday on an airdrome in Central Burma, damaging Royal Air Force property.

Sugar Rationing Is Likely To Begin May 5th

HARRISBURG, Mar. 23.—Supplies for putting into effect the sugar rationing are now being distributed throughout the state. It is now planned to have the rationing become effective after May 5th.

"The Federal authorities obviously have allowed themselves time to complete printing and distributing of these supplies, so that when registration dates arrive it will go off 100 per cent," said Transeau.

Commercial concerns will register for sugar coupons April 28 and 29, and individuals will enroll in elementary schoolhouses from May 4 to May 7, the Office of Price Administration announced last night. The amount of sugar to be allowed for each person has not been determined.

There are four general classes of supplies which Pennsylvanians will receive—application blanks, stamps and two sets of instructions, one for "everybody" and one for the local rationing boards.

LATEST WAR BULLETINS

British Subs Sink 11 Vessels

London—Operating within machine-gun range of the Italian coast, British submarines in a sweeping assault accounted for two enemy U-boats, two supply ships, six schooners and one motor vessel carrying troops, the Admiralty announced today.

The assault ranged from the Straits of Messina between Sicily and the Italian boot to the Albanian shores of the Adriatic, the Admiralty said. A communique told of air and land attacks upon the British submarines while they were attempting to rescue survivors. The statement referred to the enemy submarines as "U-boats," although the ships sunk were Italian.

Merchant Ship Torpedoed

Washington—The Navy Department today announced that a small United Nations merchant ship has been torpedoed off the Eastern coast. No details were disclosed concerning this latest submarine attack.

"Jap" Planes Renew Raids On Wyndham

San Francisco—Japanese warplanes today renewed their bombing raids on Wyndham, United Nations air base in Northwestern Australia, the Melbourne radio reported in a broadcast heard by CBS.

A medium force of Jap aircraft was said to have flown over the city. "Details are not yet fully known," the broadcast said.

General Wainwright Defies Japs

Washington—Breathing defiance at the arrogant Japanese demands for surrender, the American-Philippine troops fighting under the command of Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, today dispatched a message to their supreme commander, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, expressing their confidence that his leadership will "triumph over the aggressor."

The message to MacArthur was disclosed in a War Department communique which failed to mention any fighting in the Philippines since the Japanese surrender ultimatum expired at noon yesterday.

In their message the forces of Gen. Wainwright declared they "would continue the defense of the Philippines with the same zeal and courage manifested so magnificently under" Gen. MacArthur's own personal direction before he left for Australia.

"They sent their commander their affectionate greetings and pledged their continued loyalty and devotion," the communique said.

The War Department also announced that it had received confirmation of previously announced reports of American participation in two successful air raids on Japanese-held airdromes on New Bataan and New Guinea.

General Sir John Lavarack Meets MacArthur

Melbourne—Lieut. General Sir John Lavarack, one of Australia's most brilliant military figures, met today with General Douglas MacArthur in a highly "important interview," it was learned exclusively by International News Service.

General Lavarack, former chief-of-staff of the Australian army, was offered a post of great significance, it was believed, as task commander under the American commander-in-chief. The nature of the job that General MacArthur was believed to have suggested for General Lavarack was not revealed, of course.

Royal Air Force Raids Objectives

Cairo—Heavy Royal Air Force raids on objectives in Greece and Crete, jumping off places for a German invasion of the Near East, were announced today.

A Royal Air Force communique said: "Objectives at Berka and Derna in Cyrenaica, Hassani in Greece and Heraklion, Retimo and Tympaki in Crete were raided by our bombers Saturday night."

Meanwhile a land force communique gave details of a westward raid on the Axis landing grounds at Tmimi and Martaba which were shelled.

Port Moresby is Target of Attack

Melbourne—The heaviest Japanese air raid yet carried out on New Guinea was made today against Port Moresby, with 19 bombers and three fighters participating. There were no immediate details.

SECOND SECTOR WARDENS ADDRESS BY HEALEY

Deputy Chief Warden Explains Aim of Modern Warfare To Group

URGE ALL TO BE ACTIVE

A special meeting of the air-raid wardens of Zone No. 2 of Bristol Borough was held in the Community House last evening at 7.30 o'clock, with Senior Warden John Klug presiding.

Following a brief business meeting, Deputy Chief Warden John E. Healey explained to those present the aims of modern warfare and the reasons why all of the civilian population should participate in some form of civilian defense. Emphasis was placed on the fact that all citizens, whether wardens or not, should acquaint themselves with the best safety measures to adopt in an emergency.

Senior Warden William W. Warner, recently returned from a trip to Florida, then spoke of the preparations, or lack of preparations for air defense that he was able to observe in that locality during his stay.

55 Get Diplomas At National Farm School

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 23.—Most of the 55 graduates who received their diplomas at the National Farm School yesterday, left today to take up positions on the "farm front" in various sections of the United States to do their bit in this war, while others will go into the armed service.

Inefficient distribution is the only thing that agriculture has to worry about today, 55 graduates of National Farm School were told yesterday by Dr. Ernest L. Nixon, of Philadelphia, agricultural counselor of the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council. He spoke at the 42nd annual commencement exercises in Louchheim Auditorium, Elkhart from New York City and vicinity and 19 Philadelphians were in the class.

"The average farmer gets but 35 cents of the consumers' dollar and that is not right," Dr. Nixon declared. "There must be better co-operation between producer, consumer and distributor to the extent that the producer will get 85 cents return of the consumers' dollar."

The speaker declared that agriculture faces both its greatest opportunity and its greatest threat today.

URGE SAVING OF BAGS, BOXES, TIN RECEPTACLES

Women of Area Prepare For Drying and Canning of Surplus Foods

TABULATE EQUIPMENT

Bucks County Council of Defense is urging women throughout the county to prepare for the drying and canning of fruits and vegetables grown on local farms and in gardens.

The women of Bristol are planning to can and dry food this spring and summer. For the purpose of establishing different places where the work may be done, and to tabulate the list of equipment in these places, Mrs. Harry T. Neher has been appointed chairman of a committee which will secure and have ready this necessary information.

Mrs. Serrill D. Detlefson has been appointed chairman of a committee to have people of Bristol save the following articles to assist in the canning and storing of food: Tin receptacles, cardboard boxes and paper bags, for dried fruits and vegetables (peaches, corn, beans, apples, etc.) potato bags for this food; also newspapers and cartons for packing and storing jars of food.

Food Bank To Be Built Up at "Movie" Matinee

The children of Bristol will be given an opportunity tomorrow, to aid in food conservation under the direction of the Bucks County Council of Defense, the price of admission to the canned food matinee at the Bristol Theatre being a can of food.

Ned Egnal, manager of the Bristol Theatre, has arranged a fine program, featuring Jackie Cooper, "Gaby" of Gulliver's Travels, and a historical short.

The food will be collected and taken to various buildings in the town to be stored for use in case of an emergency.

The following women have volunteered use of their cars to distribute the food donated: Mrs. Samuel Roberts, Mrs. John Wear, Mrs. J. T. Riley, Mrs. Frank Weik, Mrs. Livingston Joyce.

BENSALEM WOMAN WILLS BEQUEST OF $200 TO A SERVANT

Margaret T. Harrison, of "Windermere," Leaves Estate Worth $65,000

DIED FEBRUARY 18TH

Household Possessions Given To Heirs Named In Memorandum

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 23.—Margaret T. Harrison, of "Windermere," Bensalem township, who left a personal estate of $50,000 and real estate valued at $15,000, bequeathed $200 to a servant, John Diment.

The testatrix, who died February 18, bequeathed all her personal effects, including clothing, to Margaret Florence Garvey, of Baltimore, Md.

Her household possessions were given to heirs named in a memorandum which is in the hands of her executors.

Alice F. Loughlin, Helen F. and E. June Loughlin, of Norwood; Anna T. Kelley, 5116 Regent street, Philadelphia; Mary C. Cunningham, Dorothy C. Comer, San Francisco, were each given $500.

A trust fund which was created for the benefit of Margaret Florence Garvey and the residue to William C. Tuttle disposes of the estate. The will was made October 18, 1935.

Seaman Is Burned To Death In Vain Rescue Attempt

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 23.—Unaware that a neighbor had rescued his wife and child, Walter Williams, 28, a seaman, today raced back into his burning tenement home, was trapped by tongues of flame and burned to death before firemen, protected by heavy streams of water, could reach him.

Awakened by smoke, Williams was burned on the arms while trying to extinguish the fire, started by an oil stove, and fled to the street. Realizing that his wife, Margaret, 28, their son, Walter, Jr., five, and five other persons were sleeping in bedrooms on the second floor, Williams dashed back into the dwelling.

Unknown to Williams, his neighbor, Frank Ramsey, 53, had broken into the house through a rear door and led all those on the second floor to safety.

Windows Broken at Bath St. School As Tree Falls

In the heavy rain and windstorm of Saturday night and early Sunday morning, a few trees were blown down in this area, streams were swollen and low-lands flooded for a short time.

A large tree on the grounds of Bath street school was up-rooted, and falling against the north side of the building breaking four panes of glass. One of the two windows struck by the limbs as the tree fell was on the first floor and one on the second floor. No other damage was done to the structure.

At the height of the storm Bristol Consolidated Firemen were called to the sixth ward, where there was a fire in Karp's smoke house.

Two Bristol Men Hurt In Crash at Trenton

Two Bristol men were injured early yesterday morning in a motor accident in Trenton, N. J.

They are: J. S. Fine, Mill street, who suffered a broken nose and broken arm; and George Paone, who was riding in the car operated by Fine. Paone has a slight head injury.

The driver of the second car, whose name was not ascertained, is a patient in a Trenton hospital.

Blocked Again?

Washington, March 21.

AGAIN, the power of the labor lobbyists with this administration has been demonstrated. At the moment when Congress once more appeared about to enact legislation relaxing the 40 hour a week and other hampering provisions of the law, the President has stepped in to stop it.

THIS is not the first nor the second nor the third time that that has happened. At any time in the past twenty months, Congress would have passed modifying labor legislation had not the weight of the White House been against it. Actually, the House has twice passed such a bill but both times the White

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(I. N. S. Staff Writer)

The 40 hour week is the hottest potato Washington ever got for breakfast.

And it is being served with plenty of ham and eggs.

The ham approach is obvious in the reading of testimony before the Congressional committees concerned and the mimeographed snowstorms.

The eggs we have with us always—hard, soft and bad.

The issue involved is an 11-word job—we need more production; how high will we pay for it?

It hasn't been covered yet in 11 billion words.

Phil Murray and Will Green are shouting on one side about the destruction of all labor's rights.

A noisy group on the other side is tarring up rails. And ordering feathers.

And all the people want to know is—does the Administration intend that overtime shall be paid for more than 40 hours war work or doesn't it?

Thought for the day: Dumbo for co-ordinator of squawks.

SAVED A LIFE

Medal and Certificate Are Presented to Line Crew of Philadelphia Electric Co.

High national honors for saving the life of a fellow employee have been awarded four Philadelphia Electric Company employees by the Edison Electric Institute. The presentation was made by Henry B. Bryans, executive vice-president of the Company, on behalf of the Institute.

Those who received the awards were:

Harrison S. Ettinger, foreman, 245 South Chancery street, Newtown.

Ray Efferson, 240 Cedar street, Bristol.

Terrence T. Taffe, North Radcliffe street, Edgely.

LeRoy J. Gottshall, Montgomeryville.

The Ecceinger line crew, on November 5, 1941, was engaged in setting poles near the electric company's Rushland substation when an accident occurred. While in the act of assembling a boom on a line truck, the boom came in contact with a 2300-volt line, energizing the truck. Unaware of what had happened, Paul J. Beebower, an apprentice lineman, of Bristol, was shocked when he came in simultaneous contact with a winch cable and the ground.

Ettinger first released the unconscious Beebower from the contact and then initiated first-aid measures in which the whole crew participated. The Prone Pressure Method of Resuscitation was employed, with the result—

DISUNITY IN INDIA

So bitter has been the long feud between Hindus and Moslems in India that the announcement by England of postwar dominion status for India forebodes more trouble in that ancient land. Of course, the London decision has been forced by Japanese advances in Burma. As the House of Commons was told, the main Japanese fleet is still intact and the Indian Ocean is entirely vulnerable.

Since the last war, as promised, Britain has moved steadily toward the granting of dominion status to India. The present crisis merely hastens the conclusive pledge.

The Moslems are in a minority in India as a whole. Yet they are dominant in certain states, and they have no religious scruples against fighting, as do many of the Hindus. The Moslems have provided most of the Indian soldiery. The Moslems will be the group which will most help Britain with fighter power now. Yet the Hindus are in a good position to sabotage all British war effort. If the cohesive Moslem League and the numerically superior All India Congress could have reached some compromise, India would probably be a dominion today.

The Moslems are demanding a separate state where they are dominant, much as Ulster won separate status from Eire. Hindu agitators say this is a British trick to continue the divide-and-rule formula. And in addition to the religious cleavage, there is the problem of how to satisfy the native rulers who have never admitted any democracy in their domains and who adhere to the British Imperial Crown as sovereigns, and nothing less.

There is no India unity. India is split like most other nations in this era of violent flux. Yet the menace from without, and the opportunity for furthering the return of Asia to the Asiatics, surely must have great force. Map makers must be as vexed by Asia these days as they are by Europe and Africa and the ocean spaces.

VIGILANCE

As a test of the vigilance with which the country is guarding its military secrets and protecting its production operations from sabotage, civilians have tried in various parts of the country to get valuable information or penetrate to places where they could do serious damage.

In nearly every case they have been successful. They failed only when they tried to run Army, Navy and Marine Corps guards, or to get into well-guarded factories.

In some instances they were German uniforms and talked in German yet circulated freely near shipyards. It was shown in the Normandie case that a civilian had no trouble obtaining employment under an alias and merely by the payment of $26 to a labor union agent. In some cases guards have been forced to join labor unions and have protected their own laxness by threatening to report union members, thus setting up a conspiracy of indefinite possibilities for aid to the enemy.

As matters stand, it is only a question of time until the government is forced by public opinion to take all control of guards from war production industries and the labor unions. Guards should be supplied by the Army, Navy or Marine Corps and should perform their duties as a military act.

Some observers think Hitler's position in Russia will not be hopeless until he calls up Italian reserves.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol May 13, 1880. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

There will be two Spiritualist camp meetings held in this neighborhood this summer. The "First Association of Spiritualists" of Philadelphia will, as during last season, hold meetings at Nesaminy Falls Grove. But one that will be much nearer of access to people in this vicinity will be held at Creedmore Park, commencing on the 9th day of July, and ending either on the 25th of July, or the 1st of August.

Charles S. Bailey, assessor of the third ward, makes the following report: Aggregate number of taxables, 517; real estate owners, 214; tenants, 232; single men, 71; non-residents holding property in third ward, 56; value of property held, $49,500; amount taxable for county purposes, $200,645; amount to county tax, $1,832.34; aggregate amount for state purposes, $2,913.29; gold watches, 5; carriages, 1.

At the quarterly conference of the Methodist Church, held on Tuesday evening, a committee was appointed, consisting of Charles S. Bailey, Charles M. Foster, and Isaac Walton, who have power to act, for the purpose of establishing a mission in the third ward.

The creamery at Hulmeville takes in about 7,000 pounds or 3½ tons of milk daily, making about 115 pounds of butter, and 14 cheeses of 40 pounds each. There is a good demand for all the articles made. The price paid for milk this month is three cents per quart.

The Medical Association of Southern Bucks County held its regular monthly meeting at Dr. Pursell's office, last Thursday afternoon, and effected a permanent organization, electing Dr. H. M. Weeks, of Fallsington, president; Dr. O. G. Sands, of Tullytown, vice-president; and Dr. H. Pursell, secretary and treasurer. A suitable constitution and by-laws were adopted, and an interesting paper upon a case of vegetable poisoning was read by Dr. Weeks, and remarks were made upon the subject by several members of the society.

The subject for discussion at the next meeting will be "Bromide of Ethyl," the new anesthetic, which is claimed to be superior to chloroform, or ether, on account of not being as dangerous as the first, and very much more prompt in its action than the latter, and not liable to produce nausea.

Dr. Groom exhibited to the society a case of lipomata tumor, which he proposed removing on Saturday, and did. The tumor was 15 inches in length, and weighed nine pounds and a half.

The stated meeting of the borough council was held on Monday evening. There was a full attendance, every member of council being present. The proceedings were unusually lively and the spectators seated in the rear of the room enjoyed what transpired with evident amusement. It must not be transacted was of a trivial character.

MATA HARI'S Daughter

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
They had told Brinda at the hospital she might see Dick Malden between five and six. She found him propped up in bed, his head bandaged, his left arm in a cast, his chest swathed like that of a mummy. He waited until the nurse left the room.

"Brinda, I've been doing a lot of thinking. And the upshot of it is—well, dear, it's that I love you and what's more, I'm going to marry you as soon as I get out of here."

Her eyes opened wide.

"Really?" she said, with a queer smile. "How very sweet of you, Dick! And don't I have anything to say about it?"

"Come here," he answered. And, as she was slow to comply, "Remember, I'm a sick man and if you provoke me, I may suffer a relapse."

"That's better. Now, bend over." His free arm went around her shoulders and he pulled her face to his. "I love you, Brinda! I adore you!"

Her resistance was mild. And, when their lips met, it ceased.

"Dick!" she whispered. "My dearest dear!"

"You're not just humoring a sick man?" he said, after a while.

"I think I've always loved you," she said, her voice soft and warm.

"Anyway, since we were in school. And it all came back when I saw you again."

"I understand." His eyes devoured her. "It was that way with me, too. Only I didn't have brains enough to know it."

"When did you find out?"

"Lying here, thinking. What a close call I had. You saved my life, you know."

"How?"

"That bomb was meant for me. You see, I switched the laboratory lights when I went out for tobacco. The bomb was rigged up to go off when I switched them on again. They found the wires."

Brinda's hand went to her throat. "You mean—?"

"If I'd gone back when I intended, I'd have been blown up instead of that poor guard. It was meant for me. But you came along and saved the day."

Brinda looked bewildered.

"You don't mean, by any chance, you want to marry me out of gratitude?"

imagined, however, that the business instead of that, it was exactly the opposite. No more important measures and none recently that will have as have been acted upon for a long time, important an influence upon the policy to be pursued in the financial management of the borough affairs in the near future. The street committee presented a report that Swain street be curbed and paved, which was received.

The constable reported that Cedar street wharf, had been sold for the year to Dr. H. Pursell for $6.75; Pond street wharf to Rogers Brothers for $6.00; and Mulberry street to G. M. Dorrance for $5.25.

Rev. J. S. Cook, who preached at the Methodist Church last Sunday morning and evening, was given a hearty greeting. He seemed perfectly at home in his old pulpit.

The roof in the back part of Joseph Wilkinson's house on Bath street, caught fire on Sunday afternoon. The fire ran in under the rafters and communicated with the house of John Broadnax. For a time there was danger of a serious conflagration.

The Great Game of Politics

poor deal. In the first place, this statement about giving up the right to strike has been made before. Yet strikes continue. Last week there were twenty-five strikes, slow-downs and other disputes, holding up production and involving 6,811 employees. In the second place, the reiterated declaration was clearly timed to head off Congressional action.

MR. ROOSEVELT, on his part, was not content with declaring against extending the 40 hour week and dismissing strikes as not as serious to production as the common cold. In addition, a formidable group of his aides went before the Senate Committee to oppose the pending legislation. Among them was Mr. Knudsen, who sometime ago endorsed the St. Lawrence Waterways project because "they asked me to," and Under Secretary of War Patterson, who last Labor Day, for the same reason, sent messages to Mr. Murray and Mr. Green congratulating them on the splendid record of labor, though millions of men days had then been lost through strikes on defense contracts of Mr. Patterson's own department—and, as he well knew, millions more were to be lost. As a climax to this merging of labor leader and administration interests, came the great "production drive" announced by Mr. Donald Nelson of the WPB. The shape this drive took was a "recommendation," amounting to an order, from Mr. Nelson to the heads of defense plants to organize labor-management committees in their establishments. The labor part of these committees consists exclusively of union men and the practical effect is to advance them toward partnership in the plants.

MR. Nelson's publicity department did a fine job in sugar coating the pill and Mr. Nelson put the industrialists in a position where they could not reject his recommendation by telegraphing them that "I count upon your patriotism to co-operate." Nevertheless, despite the disclaimers, it is clear this plan originated with the labor leaders and is being forced upon industry. It is a modified adaptation of Mr. Murray's ideas as presented in a recent magazine article and moves toward that management participation which is the labor leader goal. One claim is that it will increase production. The other is that the reverse will result—that production will be slowed down by long, messy conferences; by weakening of discipline and by disputes over policies. What seems the fact is that Mr. Nelson is opposing extension of the 40 hour week, which would certainly increase production, and is insisting upon a confused and dubious scheme, first suggested by bombastic CIO leaders and aimed in the direction of industrial socialization.

ALL these implications are denied by Mr. Nelson and his publicity directors. But the facts sustain them, and no better evidence can be asked than the gloating speeches of the labor leaders about Mr. Nelson and his "production drive." Their publicity forces joined with his and, supplementing those of the White House, combine to make a very strong ballyhoo, indeed. But only the undiscerning are deceived. The truth is that this move plays the union game and is greatly disheartening to the men upon whom responsibility for production really rests.

WHETHER Congress can stand firm against all this is questionable. It is a stiff aggregation to defy—the President, the heads of his war agencies; his legislative leaders and the labor lobby. There is enough here to take the steam out of those who have been demanding remedial legislation. Probably, once more Congress will wilt under pressure. However, there is a chance it may not. An election looms and most members know there is strong popular resentment "back home" over failure to deal firmly with this 40 hour week business.

With Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in a swashbuckling role that brings back memories of his father, "The Corsican

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

We praise Thy Name, O God, for Thy Son Jesus Christ, and for all that He has come to mean to the human world. He is the personification of all that is good—showing us how to live among other men, how to serve unselfishly, how to receive through giving; He has shown us the true meaning of Love, as He demonstrates a love to the uttermost; but chiefly we are grateful because He revealed Thee to the world, and in so doing became the propitiation for our sins. Forgive us of our sins, and accept us as Thine own, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Brothers," Edward Small's picturization of the Alexander Dumas novel, had its first local showing last night at the Grand Theatre. Swift action, thrilling drama, and all the romance of the Dumas novel are here, expertly directed by Gregory Ratoff, and given a superb production. That the audience recognized "The Corsican Brothers" as top-notch entertainment, was evidenced by the enthusiastic reception that was given the film.

In the dual role of the twin brothers, who seek revenge for the wrongs done their family by the Corsican tyrant of one hundred years ago, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., gives an exciting performance. He has no easy job, creating two separate characters who are different, yet alike in most respects. One, brought up in luxury, is a gay young man of the world. The other, raised as a bandit in the wilds of Corsica, is a dour and forbidding personality.

ST. FRANCIS LOSES TO ST. ANTHONY FIVE; OUT OF "TOURNEY"

Eddington Boys Defeated By The Score of 32 to 20

SECOND HALF RALLY

St. Francis Boys Played Good Ball Until Third Period

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 23.—A strong second half finish enabled the St. Anthony team to eliminate the St. Francis Industrial School quintet in the semi-finals of the St. Joseph's Prep Parochial School basketball tourney at 17th and Stiles streets, Saturday. Final score was St. Anthony's, 32; St. Francis, 20.

The Eddington boys were in the game until the late part of the third period when St. Anthony's staged a spurt which carried them to victory. The winners were led by Furey and Finnegan who scored a quartet of double-deckers each while Cupo led the losers with 12 points.

St. Anthony's will meet St. Leonard's Academy in the finals.

St. Francis	P.G.	F.G.	Tot.

BASKETBALL TEAMS TO HOLD BANQUET

Final arrangements have been made for the first annual basketball banquet to be held in the Lido Venice Restaurant, Andalusia, Monday night, March 30th.

Joseph Diamanti, chairman of the banquet committee, has announced that the public will be invited and tickets may be secured from any of the team managers.

Awards will be given to the Manhattan team for winning the 1941-42 championship; to the league's highest scorer; and the most valuable player in the circuit.

The club managers are voting on the latter award and the winners will be announced at the banquet. Ralph Cahall was the league's highest scorer.

Jap Aerial Armadas Batter Royal Airforce Airdrome

22nd, two enemy fighters were destroyed, while another three were probably destroyed.

"Results of the raid are not yet available.

"The Irrawaddy front remains quiet. A motor patrol around Letpaden encountered and annihilated a Japanese automobile party."

In the first attack, sixty Japanese bombers, protected by twenty fighters, concentrated on the single airport from which the United Nations bombers have been launching disastrous attacks on Japanese ground forces and airfields. But they were not able to accomplish the knockout blow they had planned, according to accounts of the terrific battle.

While several United Nations planes were missing, and only two Japanese raiders were claimed to have been definitely shot down, the raid was a failure, declared an official report. "Some damage and some casualties" resulted, said a communique from the headquarters of General Archibald P. Wavell in New Delhi, but it was disproportionate to the mighty effort of the Nipponese air force.

The mass raid was evidence of the Japanese desperation over continued successes of the RAF, the Indian Air Force, the Chinese and American AVG pilots who have so far maintained air superiority in the Burma area.

Reports from Calcutta said reinforcements "of planes and pilots" are pouring into India enroute to Burma to counter the invaders' efforts to gain control of the air.

Manday's confidence in the outcome of the air battle was bolstered by accounts of the heroic feat of a single American fighter pilot who attacked a Japanese armored column in the face of deadly anti-aircraft fire. He knocked out five Japanese tanks and returned to his base without a scratch.

RAF bombers were reported active deep into Japanese-held territory, breaking up the enemy offensive with the same strategy that is being waged successfully in the Australian campaign. One squadron was said to have made a "successful" raid on the Japanese airdrome at Mingaladon, according to British air headquarters.

At the same time the AVG pilots again raided the Japanese airport at Mouthein, across the Gulf of Martaban from Rangoon. Five enemy planes were said to have been severely damaged.

The Chinese armies under command of American General Joseph W. Stilwell, holding the line from Tungkoo in central Burma to the Thailand-Burma border, were on the alert today to deal with reported Japanese plans to crash through into North Burma from Thailand and in an effort to outflank the defending forces.

Rounding the Bags in Lower Bucks County As Well As in National Arenas

With JACK GILL

Solid stuff with no coloring added is being released for those interested in sports. The advent of Spring brings with it baseball and track as major forms of recreation. War activity, however, will interfere with action both on the sandlot as well as scholastic fronts.

Evidently the President had war demands in mind when he stated recently that while we may enjoy sports, it wouldn't be on a "sports as usual" basis. Too many delicate situations would intervene to expect such a continuous program to remain intact as was heretofore the case. Jolly old England has already pared its sports set-up down to a certain degree, but not enough to daunt the normal fan's appetite. He will still be satisfied for the sake of national morale.

Large crowds are now prohibited on the Coast and as a result several universities may be forced to curtail football. As a result, opponents will be forced to seek other squads to fill in these vacant dates in other sectors of the nation. Service teams are expected to fill the bill, reiterating the oft-repeated statement that the best of athletics from now on will be occurring within the service branches.

How about the smaller communities? Lower Bucks County, for instance, swings into another spring sports season with full schedules prepared and with full steam ahead. The schools will provide most of the impetus with two months of baseball and track activity. The sandlot baseball picture, seriously dented with the Army drain on young players interfering, may have to hang up the shoes for the season or courageously "dig in" and try to make a go of the situation.

The transportation bugaboo may even hit the high schools. The Tire Rationing rule states that "No vehicle equipped with tires and tubes for which certificates have been granted shall be used for excursions of any character. Transportation shall be provided only from homes of students and teachers or from regular school bus stops to the regular places of instruction."

Quite naturally long bus trips and scheduled games with far-away teams will have to be sliced to a minimum. Independent sandlot clubs will find the going tougher as the war progresses, but should be able to thrive in a local league owing to the fact that people will leave town less for the shore and other excursions. It could be a baseball boom.

Many are of the opinion that community athletics should be fostered on a more emphasized program. Systematized to include the older as well as the younger civilians, it would be in co-operation with the government's "Hale America" agency calling for more recreational pursuit. Athletic leaders holding physical education degrees, specify volleyball, tennis, golf and softball for the elders with the usual major sports sufficing for the me of draft status.

Perhaps this would be the year in which to revive the Boys Week meet for the "kids" of Bristol. A streamlined program of sports for younger boys would be the order with the track and field meet on Saturday closing the event. There are scores of older "Big Brothers" around town who would consider it a privilege to bring the commendable feature back to the community.

Regardless of the many entangling vines that will weave their way in and out of the structure, government as well as military heads realize the importance of athletics in schools and in towns. It keeps the home guard in trim and makes the incoming soldier a man of greater durability. Several battles were won on the football field where a soldier attained that competitive spark of fury and sense of attack.

So while it is true that we may have games and sports, the spectacles of the

Bensalem Woman Wills Bequest of $200 To Servant

With the exception of a bequest of $300 to Lillian Noite, Mickleton, N. J., the $2,000 personal estate of Mina Ernst, Warminster township, will be inherited by Christ's Home, Warminster.

The testatrix, who died January 9th, named Frederick J. Schwab, Christ's Home, executor, in her will executed August 28, 1915.

With the exception of a settlement which was agreed upon before his death, Harvey M. Freed, Richlandtown manufacturer, who left a personal estate of "4,000 and upwards" and real estate valued at $4,000, seven children and the widow, Elizabeth S. Freed, are the heirs.

The will, which was executed November 22, 1927, stipulated that his executors and his widow knew of the terms of a settlement with his widow. The children are Myrtle Schroy, C. A. W. N., J. H., H. M., Alice C. and Harvey B. Freed. Three of the sons, Claude A., of Emaus; William Norman and John H., both of Richlandtown, are the executors.

With the exception of a bequest of $5 to a son, Clarence, the $1,000 personal estate of L. Willis Worthington, Buckingham township, will be inherited by his widow, Flora Worthington, Buckingham Valley.

With the exception of a bequest of $100 in trust for the care of the family plot and another of $25 for the care of an uncle's grave to Trinity Reformed Church at Spinnerstown, the $13,000 personal estate of Amanda E. Fegley, Milford township, will be inherited by three children.

The heirs in the original will included Ida Roberts, who is now deceased, and two sons, John F. and Harry H. Fegley.

In a codicil, written May 30, 1932, the testatrix directed that three children, Jennie, James and Roscoe Roberts, children of Ida Roberts, should be their mother's beneficiaries.

The will, which was written April 26, 1926, named John F. Fegley, Spinnerstown, and Harry H. Fegley, 1121 Green street, Allentown, executors.

The $250 personal estate of Anna Bredin Reddan, Solebury township, will be inherited by her husband, William J. Reddan, New Hope, R. D. 1.

Six heirs, Margaret Conover, a sister, one part; Wilmer Swartz, a brother, four parts; Mrs. Jennie Reihl, a sister, four parts; Anna Humphrey, two parts; Irma Galligan, two parts, and Charles H. Kurz, nine parts, will inherit the $150 personal and $250 real estate holdings of Lettie A. Swartz, Plumstead township.

The $75 personal and $6500 real estate holdings of Andrew Gilkeson, Chalfont, will be inherited by seven heirs with the exception of a bequest of $200 in trust for the purpose of taking care of a burial plot. Howard A. Gilkeson was bequeathed $1,000, and a daughter, Nellie M. Gilkeson, was given the household possessions.

Five children, Nellie M., Russell A., Cleto, Paul and Howard, will share the residue.

Letters of administration in the estate of George B. Fessler, Bensalem township, were granted to J. Hibbs Buckman, amounting to a personal estate of $1500.

The heirs include two brothers, Elmer M. and Truman B. Fessler, and three sisters, Merna E. Nicholas, Ethel J. Beach and Alice M. Gohl.

In the estate of Isaac Newton Hart, Upper Southampton township, letters of administration were granted to C. Clarence Kohl, Southampton, amounting to a personal estate of $300.

The heirs include three nieces, Clara H. Bloomer, Rachel H. Osborne, and Florence Garrett, and a nephew, Wilmer J. Hellings.

Second Sector Wardens Addressed By Healey

suit that in a short time Beerbower began to show signs of returning consciousness.

He was taken to the Doylestown Hospital and eventually made a complete recovery.

In this particular case, because of the circumstances, the Edison Electric Institute awarded a Medal and Certificate to the line crew as a whole and replicas of the Medal and a Certificate to each member.

The medals have in their composition copper taken from the original mains laid down in New York City by the late Thomas A. Edison, in 1881.

"We are fortunate, indeed," Mr. Bryans said, in presenting the awards, "that our employees are not only trained in life-saving technique, but are on the alert to use that training effectively whenever they are called upon." Mr. Bryans also made pointed reference to the fact that the company had operated throughout 1941 without a single fatality.
